

Kant Review

Key concepts for Kantian ethics:

The good will, reason, inclination v. will, hypothetical imperatives, perfect and imperfect duties, dignity, the first version of the categorical imperative, the second version of the categorical imperative, instrumental value, intrinsic value, morally laudable, four categories of actions

With your group develop a hypothetical ethical situation. The situation should be fairly straightforward. Using as many of the above terms as you can, explain how Kant would decide whether the action was ethical and praiseworthy. Using the chart on the back to create a flow chart that explains your reasoning.

Your situation:
